Other information

It is also possible to: share one’s perception on the current air quality in a specific location; see how other users feel about the current air quality; see air pollution trends; get notifications when elevated air pollution levels are forecast; and receive personalised health advice and tips to safely plan daily activities according to air pollution levels.